

Cama'i – Hello,

The past few months has been filled with generous gifts. People have donated artwork to our collections and returned ancestral artifacts to our care. Organizations have provided space for programs and shared staff members to help move our collections. And many donors have given generously to our renovation. We are humbled by the support of so many friends. You are helping us to serve now and far into the future. Please enjoy our fall programs and resources. Quyanaasinaq—with many thanks.

Honor Wall

Honor a Loved One | Celebrate Your Family | Show Business Support

There is still time to support the Alutiiq Museum's renovation and add your name to our Honor Wall. This display of glass tiles in our new lobby will feature the names of all project supporters. You can add your name, or honor someone who has connected you to the Alutiiq world—a family, culture bearer, mentor, friend, or organization. To purchase a tile, make a gift at the link below and share the acknowledgement you'd like.

Respect & Protect Kodiak History

Much of the information stored in an artifact comes from its location. The place an object is found can help us learn about its age, function, manufacture, and much more. Kodiak has a rich archaeological record and artifacts are common finds. If you find an artifact, leave it in place to be studied. Take photos not objects. Artifacts are protected by law. Supported by the EVOS Trustee Council.
