

Cama'i—Hello

Though the long summer days seem endless, they always pass too quickly. As we move into August, we enjoy the final weeks of summer. Across the Kodiak Archipelago, this is a busy time for subsistence harvesting. A season of gathering and preserving food for the winter ahead, a tradition the Alutiiq/Sugpiaq people have practiced for thousands of years. Stop by the Alutiiq Museum to learn more about the history of subsistence harvesting. We are excited to welcome everyone to our Annual Open House on August 20th. Join us for free gallery admission, cultural activities, and an opportunity to meet our staff. We hope to see you there!

First Friday: Mo Spooner

August 7th, 4 to 6 PM

Mo is an Alutiiq Seal Artist who takes inspiration from his cultural roots on Afognak Island. Come visit with Mo and learn about his artistic process during this First Friday event. Mo's original Mamciqut (We will all Heal) painting will be on display, and there will be prints available for purchase.

Annual Open House

Thursday, August 20th, 5 to 7 PM

Join us on August 20th from 5 to 7 PM for our Annual Open House! Meet the staff, participate in cultural activities, explore our galleries with free admission, and learn more about the Alutiiq Museum's work.

Get creative with iron-on petroglyph decals at our Annual Open House! Bring a shirt from home or purchase one for $10 at the event. Petroglyph decals are $3 each. Every purchase supports the Alutiiq Museum's operations and programs.
